I've released an important new report revealing how the health and well-being of some groups of people in the United States continue to bear the greatest burden of harms caused by tobacco use and secondhand smoke exposure. As the nation's doctor, I firmly believe that everyone deserves to live a healthy life, free from tobacco-related disease, disability, and death. Yet far too many Americans continue to live with and die from the devastating health effects of tobacco. We can change this together. Learn how at cdc.gov/EndTobaccoDisparities.
